Lookout for the Blue Mountain's Newest Venue

The Three Sisters World Heritage Plaza at Echo Point, welcomes premium hospitality company, Trippas White Group, who is set to launch The Lookout Echo Point.

Perched on the edge of the escarpment, with breathtaking views of the valley and Three Sisters unrivalled by any other venue in the mountains, The Lookout at Echo Point will be a world-class food, wine and hospitality venue.

Launching late June 2015, the Blue Mountains' newest tourist attraction encompasses a brand new destination restaurant, featuring a 'Heritage Cuisine' menu that incorporates produce from the venue's Heritage Garden.

A new wine bar is currently under development in the space, offering a vast array of wines sourced exclusively from New South Wales' vineyards, including extensive by the glass selections presented via an Enomatic system.

The Lookout Echo Point will feature an all new café and takeaway food outlet with expansive outdoor terraces and balconies offering stunning views. Patrons can expect delicious coffee with Toby's Estate premium coffee now available.

The Lookout Echo Point Venue Manager, Tim Petersen said: "As a local myself, I was so excited to hear about the new plans for the old World Heritage Plaza. It was definitely due for a facelift and fresh team to renew the space."

"Trippas White Group is bringing a wealth of hospitality knowledge and expertise to the Blue Mountains, offering its usual standard of exceptional service and premium food."

"I am especially excited that our wine bar will showcase selections from every NSW wine producing region. I am thrilled that we will support the local community, by offering more job opportunities for locals and sourcing local produce and products wherever possible."

To celebrate the relaunch, The Lookout Echo Point is holding its inaugural Yuletide Dinner on Saturday, July 25. The event is a must for those looking for a Christmas in July foodie experience, with a twist. The Blue Mountains' winter months are renowned for its cooler climates, becoming the perfect location to enjoy a delicious warm winter feast.

"Our head chef has created a uniquely Australian, festive three-course winter menu, utilising local and heritage produce, presented on sharing platters for your table," Tim continued.
